

Why retirement living remains a safe and beneficial choice for seniors

Chartwell retirement residences—which differ from long term care homes—are contemporary places that more and more seniors are choosing to call home.

INDEPENDENCE, SUPPORT & CHOICE

With independent living, assisted living and memory care lifestyles available, retirement communities cater to a wide range of needs and preferences for seniors in private accommodations ranging from suites to apartments with full kitchens to independent townhomes. With flexibility to add and remove services according to the level of support they need, residents are able to age in place and live comfortably.

COMMUNITY & SOCIAL CONNECTION

What every Chartwell residence has in common is that during difficult times like these, residents benefit from a strong sense of social connection and solidarity, as well as receive consistent services like dining, in-suite lifestyle experiences, medication management and personalized care support as needed. Residents and their families benefit from peace of mind, as they know they can count on the support of their second family: the staff they've come to know and trust and fellow residents whom they consider friends.

KEEPING EVERYONE SAFE

At Chartwell, we continue to take all necessary infection prevention and control precautions in our residences to help protect those living, working and visiting our communities. This includes all recommendations from provincial and public health authorities. Some of the enhanced safety measures in our homes include:

- ✓ Regular surveillance of residents for health and well-being
- ✓ PPE available and required for staff
- ✓ Enhanced Infection Prevention & Control education for staff and residents
- ✓ Screening of visitors and staff
- ✓ Visitor restrictions according to province
- ✓ Promotion of good hand hygiene and physical distancing
- ✓ Hand sanitizer readily available
- ✓ Increased cleaning and disinfection of high-touch surfaces
- ✓ Safety measures implemented in all aspects of residents' daily life, including the dining experience, life enrichment activities, services like hairdressing and personal support, etc.

Chartwell retirement communities remain safe, engaging and fulfilling places to call home—where residents are always supported and their best interests are put first.
